PRINCIPAL'S POST

By: Cecilia Methvin

For the shortest month of the year, February sure has a lot of activity! We celebrated Catholic Schools Week and showed our appreciation for all of the different groups of people who make Catholic education possible. I want to personally thank each and every one of you for making that choice, and especially for choosing Sacred Heart. It is a decision that my parents made for me and my siblings, and it is one my husband and I made for our children. I will be eternally grateful for the impact that the teachers, administration, and other parents had on my children and my family; it truly changed our lives.

Our service project for CSW was collecting cleaning supplies for Catholic Charities. I am so proud of our Student Council and Beta Club members for organizing this project; they showed leadership and a desire to help those in need. Congratulations to our 4th grade class for collecting the most items. As a reward, they enjoyed a 'comfy clothes' day today. Our students make me #SacredHeartProud!

One of the most famous and celebrated focuses of February is Black History. This is a special month dedicated to acknowledging and celebrating the accomplishments and contributions of Black Americans throughout our country's history. This year, we are celebrating Black Saints. Our 5th graders have taken on the task of researching and writing mini reports to share each day at morning and afternoon prayer, and the entire school is learning about how Black Saints have overcome obstacles and challenges in their lives to leave an indelible mark on our world and our Church, as well as pave the way for future generations to be inspired to do the same. Thank you to Mr. LeBlanc and Mrs. Robinson for working with them to prepare these important daily lessons.

TIGER SHOP IS OPEN Click here to shop before it closes on Sunday, February 19 at midnight. Contact Jennifer Thibodeaux (jthibodeaux@catholichigh.org) or Jennifer Broussard (jenncbroussard@gmail.com) with any questions.

VALENTINE AND MARDI GRAS THEME DRESS DAYS For valentine's day, students may wear red, pink, and/or white or theme shirts and accessories; long blue or black jeans (loose fitting with no holes) or uniform bottoms (shorts or long pants), or pants in the theme colors. For Mardi Gras theme dress day, students may wear purple, green, and/or gold/yellow or theme shirts and accessories; long blue or black jeans (loose fitting with no holes) or uniform bottoms (shorts or long pants), or pants in the theme colors.

MARDI GRAS BEADS Mrs. Robinson is in need of Mardi Gras beads for the parade next week. If you have any extra beads, please send them to school by Wednesday of next week.

CLUB PHOTOS We will be taking club pictures for the yearbook on Wednesday, February 15 beginning at 9 am. If your child is in a club that has a uniform or club tshirt, they may wear it to school. If they are in more than one club with a shirt or uniform, please send them with all shirts/uniforms so they can change into the appropriate item for each photo. Questions? Email Wendy Milam (wmilam@sacredheartbr.com).

SACRED HEART OF JESUS ST. VINCENT DE PAUL FOOD PANTRY Sacred Heart of Jesus St. Vincent de Paul Food Pantry is in need of hearty soups, canned ravioli, canned spaghetti & meatballs, chili & tuna. Experts say Kids Ward Off COVID More Easily, But Their Immune System Pays a Price

Children's amped-up immune systems allow them to beat back COVID-19 easily, producing a strong initial response that quickly slaps away the virus. Because the initial response provides such a swift takedown, kids' immune systems don't remember the virus and don't adapt to be prepared for future infections, according to scientists. As a result, their body still treats COVID as a new threat, opening them to becoming sick from future COVID infections. The price that children pay for being so good at getting rid of the virus in the first place is that they don't have the opportunity to develop 'adaptive' memory to protect them the second time they are exposed to the virus.

Everyone's immune system has two modes -- the innate and the adaptive systems.

The innate immune system is mainly comprised of barriers like skin and mucosal surfaces that physically block viruses from entering the body. It also can generate general immune responses when it detects a foreign invader like a virus or a bacterium, although it can't distinguish between specific pathogens. On the other hand, the adaptive immune system contains B and T cells that serve as "memory" cells. This system learns to recognize and distinguish different parts of specific viruses, and can generate a rapid and targeted response to infection.

Babies start with an immune system blank slate, and rely on their innate immune system to defeat infections.

As they grow and are exposed to more viruses, their memory T cells learn how to make responses to those viruses.

Children's immune systems move from relying mostly on the innate system to needing the adaptive system as a backup as they grow older and are unable to clear viruses as rapidly.

In one study, researchers genetically analyzed white blood cell samples to review T cell responses in children and adults, at the time of their COVID infection as well as one month later. The researchers found that children successfully fought COVID off through the immune response in their upper airway, which relied on physical barriers like mucous as well as "naïve" immune cells that attack any virus in sight. However, the children had a poor memory T cell response to COVID after they recovered, meaning their immune system hadn't learned how to target SARS-CoV-2 specifically. Essentially, their robust innate immune response undermines their adaptive response.

Adults were the exact opposite -- few naïve T cells but great memory T cell responses after infection and recovery.

The results will provide additional support for childhood vaccination against COVID.

Vaccination "will be required to bypass this immune bottleneck in the upper airway in children and allow them to generate long-lasting immunity," the January issue of the journal Clinical Immunology noted.

These findings could explain why the immune systems of older adults overreact to COVID, causing severe and life-threatening symptoms. COVID is caused by a coronavirus, the same family of viruses that also cause the common cold. When adults are infected for the first time with SARS-CoV-2, their memory T cells recognize only what they've seen before - like a familiar part of the coronavirus that is shared with the common cold coronaviruses.

This may lock the immune system in to a misdirected response that is not specific to SARS-CoV-2. It provides an opportunity for the virus to escape and multiply unchecked to cause more severe symptoms as the immune system ramps up to try and fix the problem.

Takeaway

I am pretty sure that more research has been performed on Covid 19 around the world than any other disease in a three year time period. This research helps us understand how Covid 19 behaves, its effects on the human body and helps healthcare providers understand and treat it. Scientist can also apply breakthroughs in research with other disease research making. On the flip side, there are a lot of poorly designed research projects and good ones that are misrepresented in the media. Always look where the study comes from.

Wishing you a healthy week ahead,
